2014 OJ Guide to Teen Services and Activities in Tompkins County

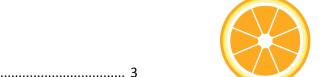

Why the title? "OJ" stands for what you probably guessed: Orange Juice.

A group of students chose this title because, just like orange juice, the OJ Guide is full of activities and services that promote healthy living for teens. The programs that are listed in this guide promote not only physical health, but mental health as well. The Tompkins County Youth Services Department invites teens, parents, school staff and other adults who care about youth to explore and use the OJ Guide to access the activities and services that are available in our community!

When calling a listed program for more information you may want to ask:

- Am I eligible for these services?
- How much does it cost? (Some programs are free and some charge for their services. Many offer scholarships, don't hesitate to call ask. Some have "sliding fees" depending on ability to pay.)
- Is there a waiting list or can my child start right away?

Encouraging Diversity and Confronting Discrimination

Although Tompkins County is rich in diverse opinions, beliefs, and cultures, sometimes people are discriminated against because of their differences. There are many laws that prevent people from discriminating against others, especially in the workplace. It's also illegal to discriminate against people who have a disability and people who have been previously arrested and convicted.

Abuse and Rape

Abuse can come in many forms from name calling, pushing, slapping, and grabbing to controlling behavior, rape, physical injury, and murder. Abuse can happen once but most often is part of a pattern that escalates and worsens over time. Any sexual contact that is unwanted or without consent is sexual assault/abuse; medical treatment may be needed. The SANE (Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner) program at Cayuga Medical Center has specially trained nurses to help those who have been sexually abused or raped. The abused person has the right to talk to the police about the possibility of bringing charges against whoever has hurt them. They may also be able to get a court order of protection.

Birth Control and Sexual Health

(see also LGBTQ Resources)

In New York, young people are allowed to get and use birth control, reproductive health care, a pregnancy test, or testing for HIV/STI's (sexually transmitted infections) without parent permission. However, talking with a trusted adult can be helpful. Most of the services listed here are confidential; be sure to ask if this is important to you. In New York, any person age 21 or older having sex with someone age 17 or younger can be arrested for statutory rape. Under any circumstance, engaging in sex with a person without their consent is a crime.

Tompkins County Health Insurance Navigators

Starting in January, 2014, the Affordable Care Act requires that most people have health insurance. Most people who do not have insurance in 2014 will have to pay a penalty to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) when they file their taxes. New York has its own state-based Marketplace, https://nystateofhealth.ny.gov/ to help consumers access affordable health insurance information and options. A Health Insurance Navigator can assist you to get health insurance through the New York State of Health Marketplace. You can authorize a Navigator to work on your behalf. Assistance from Navigators is free of charge and confidential. There will likely be fees for the insurance except for those meeting income eligibility for free or low-cost coverage from Medicaid or Child Health Plus. Please call one of these Tompkins County Navigators for scheduling and location information:

Immigrant Services

All K-12 students, regardless of their home language, have a right to free education in public schools in New York. Instruction for English Language Learners (ELL) must recognize and respect the languages and cultures of all students and lead to proficiency in English. Schools must also provide parents with all pertinent information about their rights and program choices in a language and format that parents can easily understand and provide training to parents in English and in their home language on effective strategies to support their children's learning in and out of school.

See listings below for agencies that offer ESL (English as a Second Language) classes for adults.

The Civil Rights Act prohibits discrimination based on national origin. Any agency that receives federal funding should provide language assistance services (including interpreters, translators, and/or telephone-based interpreters) when needed at no cost to the client to assure that the individual is receiving correct and complete information. It is wise to check in advance so the appropriate help can be arranged for with agencies, schools, and municipalities.

Legal Assistance and Juvenile Justice

Youth ages 7–15 who commit crimes are considered Juvenile Delinquents (JDs). By law, parents must be notified if their child (under age 16) is arrested and have the right to be present when the youth is questioned. At age 16 a person can be arrested by the police and prosecuted as an adult.

Youth under age 18 who show a pattern of disobedience, running away, curfew violations, drug or alcohol abuse, violent behavior or school truancy can be referred to Family Court as a Person in Need of Supervision (PINS). Probation officers try to help resolve the problems before asking a Family Court judge to make decisions about the services and consequences most appropriate for each situation.
